ket today was little changed. Opening on a level with last night's closing the same leading stocks came to the front, with Steel shares and Gas trust stocks the most active. The market was firm, but prices were not impressive.

A feature of the opening was the number of shares that were unchanged, including Union Pacific, Steel common and preferred, Pennsylvania, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and American Locomo-Missouri Pacific opened 11/2 lower, and Baltimore and Ohio was down %.

Trading went on during the short ses sion with some gain in the steels and railroads, the more active stocks being marked up to higher points for this movement of about one point. Steel common reached 44, Consolidated Gas 138 and better, and Brooklyn Union Gas 134, slacking off slightly toward the close. St. Paul was the strongest of the railroad issues, advancing 1%,

The curb market saw but little activity in the mining lists. Cotton and Orain were not materially changed. The number of idle cars is reported as being 330,360 on July S, a decrease of 9,380 for the two weeks previous. Brokers left the posts of the ex-

Wall Street Unsettled.

Wall Street has no settled ideas about the market. It is recognized to be in a very uncertain state. Business has helped the steel stocks along, better traffic and talk about increasing freight rates has helped along the railroad shares, but many speculators do not seem to recollect that any advance in freight rates is sure to be met by protests so strong before the interstate Commerce Commission by shippers that it would be several work.

PRODUCE PRICES

Quiet dealings marked the close of the week in the produce market. Price changes from the figures of the previous Detroit Brokerage Firm's Crash shapes for the two weeks previous.

Brokers left the posts of the exchange at 12 o'clock, feeling that the market is strong, that news for further advance is favorable, and that conditions are right for a further advance in prices next week. Yet there is a feeling of great uncertainty as to the future of the market. The fact is sentiment is unsettled and the point of view is apt to be the last utterance of some financier or railroad president who talks in a persuasive manner.

Wall Street bas no settled ideas about the characteristic forms the figures of the previous day were few the market for leggs was very firm. tests so strong before the Interstate Commerce Commission by shippers that it would be several months before the proposition could be threshed out 30 as to help the railroads much. Yet the promise seems to help stocks upward and is possibly serving a good purpose to that extent.

The real strength of the market rests upon manipulation by powerful financial interests, who believe and know that financial and business conditions will be better during the balance of the year. It lies wholly in the hands of these big and crafty speculators to put the market much higher, or to abandon their guns some time soon and allow prices to sag again, as they have done two or three times since the March pante in stocks of 1907.

It is this that keeps the talent guessing, and this which affords the only doubt in the minds of anybody as to the essentially hopeful condition of the market for a long and higher rise.

ARMORY ARGUMENT FIXED FOR MONDAY

Judge Barley Will Decide Upon Permanent Injunction.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, Judge Barley next Monday will hear arguments on the injunction proceed ings instituted by the new military company to gain possession of Armory Hall from the Alexandria Light In-

Just before his visit to Bath county few weeks ago Judge Barley issued temporary injunction putting the new nilitary company in possession of Arm ry Hall and ousting the Alexandria Light Infantry. On Monday Judge Bar-ley, after hearing both sides of the case, will decide whether to make the injunction permanent or not.

The overturning of a lamp in the kitchen of the farm house of William Simpson, about three miles south of Alexandria, on the Hunting creek road, caused a disastrous fire last night. The loss, which will be $2,000, is partially covered by insurance.

Julius Herman Krause, a well-known Alexandrian, was taken ill in Washington last evening and died at 520 Virgini avenue southeast this morning. Mr. Krause was sixty-three years of age and resided at 1446 Duke street, in this city.

The funeral of Samuel Ticer will be held from his late home tomorrow af-ternoon. The Red men and the Junior Orger United American Mechanics will attend the funeral.

At a called meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, appropriations were made for the paving of columbus street, between King and Cameror street, with vitrified brick, and of Payne street, between King and Cameron street, with cobble stones.

The Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon Railway Company has awarded to the Pettey Electrical Indicator Signal Company the contract for equipping the entire road with signals.

a Million Dollars.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—With a crash involving liabilities of half a million dollars in excess of assets, the big brokerage firm of Cameron Currle & Co, went to the wall this morning, involving banks, investors, and speculators generally. The firm was the largest in this section of the country.

Fred G. Austin was named receiver for the firm by Judge Mandell on petition of Cameron Currie, who alleges that his partner, Louis H. Case, has been careless in the conduct of the business and accepted bad accounts. Case in his answer, admits most of Currle's allegations. Receiver Austin is required to furnish a bond of $250,000.

The champion writer today really is ndisputably a champion. When a man has made a record in anything he for bill of particulars granted with ten days to plead. Plaintiff's attorney, J. Dawson Williams; defendant's attorneys, Birney & Woodard. No sooner has a man made two centuries in first-class cricket in one match, or gone round some difficult links in sixty-three, than, clearly, he links in sixty-three, than, clearly, he is in for a book. He is the champion author, or one of the champion authors. If he does not acqually write a book he is expected to hold forth in so many papers and magazines at the same time that the result in bulk is superior to a volume—to several volumes sometimes.—London Saturday Review.

FOR HIS FREEDOM

Refuses to Talk About Embezzlement Charge Before Trial.

"My side of this awful affair will be brought out if it comes to trial, not be-fore," said Henry P. Gilbert, the Georgetown business man and one time president of the First Co-Operative Building Association, who has been in dicted by the grand jury on an em-bezzlement charge in connection with an estate of which he was executor. "There is only one thing I will say,

"There is only one thing I will say, and that is that I won't go to jail if a good fight and a presentation of the true facts in the case will prevent it. I never have been near a jail in my life and I certainly don't want to go at my age. I have been living here in George town all my life, and I am sure that town all my life, and I am sure that my friends have faith in me."

Mr. Gilbert expressed himself in this manner at his Georgetown home this morning. He was released last night on $5,000 ball, furnished by John B. Bloss, of Georgetown. The indictment charged Gilbert with embezzling $6.937, funds which he held in trust as executor of the estate of George Hill, jr.

Mr. Gilbert is sixty-five years old, and one of the most widely known men

KANSAS PHILOSOPHY. Before accepting a favor, look for le string that may be tied to it.

Pray for the things you want, but work for the things you must have.

You can flatter almost anyone (man or woman) by saying, "You have tem-perament." Complaining of the folly of fashion is as useless as complaining when the weather is bad.

You didn't have the right kind of a good time if you are not good natured the next day after you had it.—Atchison (Kansas) Globe.

for the firm by Judge Mandell on petition of Cameron Currie, who alleges that his partner, Louis H. Case, has been careless in the conduct of the business and accepted bad accounts. Case in his answer, admits most of Currie's allegations. Receiver Austin is required to furnish a bond of $250,000.

The firm held membership on both the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges.
